VAGABOND
THIS is all I ask of life:
The earth and open sky
For my comrades and a roving
To guide me by.

A roving star to lead me on,
And when I tire
A wayside spot among the trees
And a rousing fire.

A fire of beechen logs
To thaw my utmost soul,
To make me whole
A touch of color and romance
A splendid flame that blossoms
To a crimson flower
And dies to burning embers
For the soul's deep hour.

W. M. S. Celebrates 63rd Anniversary Of Founders' Day

Thursday the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist church, celebrated the 63rd anniversary of Founder's Day. The meeting was started with a picnic dinner at 12:30, in the dining room of the church, and was enjoyed by all who attended.

At 2:30 a fitting program was given in honor of the founders of the society in 1869. The president, Miss Flora Seals presided. She said "We have met today in honor of the eight women who were the founders, and gave our society its name."

Of that day whose rainy dawn has stretched across the space of sixty years.
Of that day and women brave we humbly sing.
And unto them a fitting reverence bring.

Those eight brave women of long ago,
Lifted a torch whose fadeless glow,
To the uttermost parts of the world doth shine,
We honor the eight of '69.

The dawn is spent, the swiftly rising sun
Shows greater things to do than have been done
And paths to walk that never have been trod.
For nothing is impossible with God.

All joined in singing "Send the Light," Mrs. Grover at the piano. Mrs. Shawger and Miss Wilson lighted the eight candles, with appropriate Scriptural quotations.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Clara Rowe. She requested the singing of "How Firm a Foundation." Mrs. Willford leading. Mrs. Rowe compared the eight women with the disciples of Christ and quoted the Lord's promise in 2nd Psalm. And today we have seven hundred forty-three missionaries in the field in sixty-three years. She closed with prayer. Mrs. Gebhart and Mrs. Willford rendered the duet "When I've Gone the Last Mile of Way." The secretary, Mrs. Randall, and treasurer, Mrs. Dawson, each gave her report.

Miss Decker read an advertisement, and quoted Malachi 3:10. Mrs. Hobbs called attention to the calico box which was passed for the institute fund.

A branch meeting of the society is to be held Friday, the 8th, in Joliet. Mrs. Hobbs was named as delegate. Mrs. Philip Raymond rendered another solo, "Just For Today." A report of the group meeting held in Sterling, March 17th was given by Mrs. Beech, which told of much good work being done. Dixon winning the prize for the largest attendance. The president then called on Mrs. Lumsden who gave an interesting talk before giving her address she said "Many of you have heard us say that no place seems so much like home as Dixon." In part she said, "Brave men and women, who have gone before, do establish paths of righteousness. God spoke to Abraham. He said 'I will bless thee, and make thee a blessing.' We want to think of some Bible women, Deborah and coming down through the years, Lydia. In 1634 Mrs. Hutchinson, a pioneer came to America. But her religious opinions caused her great criticism, banishment, and imprisonment.

On "Founders' Day" we think of the leaders. We cannot go as pioneers, but we can help to carry on what they began." Mrs. Lunsden closed with a beautiful poem. Mrs. Philip Raymond rendered another solo "Speak to Me, Father." Miss Callie Morgan, literature superintendent spoke of the "Missionary Friend," the organization paper and urged all who have not, to subscribe. A dialogue showing the merits of the articles which the Friend contains was given in a realistic manner by Mrs. Dutch and Mrs. Sheffield. Five women gave their reasons for taking the paper. Mesdames Ireland, Leake, Randall, Morris and Rowe. In closing the program the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison.

Of Bicentennial Flower Gardens

Schools and garden clubs all over the country are joining enthusiastically in a movement to plant flower gardens this spring as part of the celebration in honor of the George Washington Bicentennial. This is being done in several ways, according to the Information Division of the United States Department of Agriculture. Many gardeners will plant flowers which will bloom year after year to remind future generations of this great patriotic, nation-wide celebration. Back yards and small garden plots will bloom with Colonial flowers as an outdoor manifestation of what this year means to Americans. The Department of Agriculture in various states and the United States are cooperating wholeheartedly in this movement by preparing lists of flowers and shrubs which were familiar in the Colonial Days.

It is possible to plant Ivy at your own home from slips taken at Mount Vernon. Tourists and visitors to this national shrine will themselves of the opportunity to purchase a little pot of Ivy at the entrance gate.

To insure the amateur gardener of the most attractive results, certain results, certain seeds may be planted in the open ground where the plants are to grow.
Among those that should be sown early in that way are alyssum, California poppy, candytuft, cornflower, forget-me-nots, nemophila, Drummond phlox, sunflower poppy and sweet alyssum.

Among those that should be sown late in this manner after the ground is warm are the castor bean, sorghum, milk, fetterita, Indian corn, garden balsam and the four o'clock.

The experts of the Bicentennial Commission have worked out a series of color combinations some of which follow:

There was an exceptionally large attendance at the meeting and one of the features was a duet arranged in an impromptu manner by Allan Road and Bertha Rorich which was thoroughly enjoyed. The various committees for the ensuing year were appointed by Dorothy Jane Dodd, Worthy High Priestess. Following the meeting, the members all adjourned to the card rooms where a delightful bridge party was enjoyed. To terminate a most pleasant evening, delightful refreshments were served in the dining room, during which the prizes were awarded to the lucky winners. Vesper Service Well Attended

A large crowd of young people attended the Vesper Services of the Young People's Conference at the Christian Church last evening at 6:00 o'clock. Miss Lois Fellows presided at the organ.

The meeting was opened by all singing appropriate hymns, scripture reading and chorus singing. Rev. Whitmore led in prayer.

A quartette composed of Mrs. Ira Utz, Miss Elsie Krug, Roy A. Glessnes and Albert Whitmore favored with "Wonderful Grace of Jesus." They were accompanied at the piano by Dick Choate.

"Young People and Bible-Reading" was the subject spoken on by Rev. Whitmore. He asked for a showing of hands as to how many found real happiness in reading the Bible and also how many did not. Many took the affirmative, but few took the negative.

In part he said:
"If we read the Bible with pleasure we will not find pleasure in reading other stuff, or if we read not get pleasure from the Bible. The faces of some old people glow when they speak of reading the Bible. They got that love for it when they were young—Bible reading is to the soul what bread and butter is to our body. Reading directly from the Word of God puts something in us. The best men in our country had time to read the Bible. Blind people who can quote so much Scripture learned it when they were young. 'Thy Word have I had in my heart that I might not sin against Thee.' Studying the Bible creates watchfulness, steadfastness, ability to quit like men and helps to be strong enough to overcome."

In closing the poem, "My Bible and I" was read.
Rev. Gordon brought a message on prayer-life. He stated that all should remember the command "Watch ye and pray lest ye enter into temptation." He said in part: "Prayer is not a spare tire or emergency brake to help in time of trouble, but is of more practical use. We should let our requests be made known with prayer and thanksgiving. Many people get the 'rimmer' when they pray. We should learn to pray. 'Thy will be done.' We should make our prayers more practical. The services were closed by the singing of "Have Thine Own Way."

All young people of Dixon are invited to attend these meetings. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at the Christian Church at 6:45.

Meeting Dixon Woman's Club Enjoyed on Saturday

The address by Mrs. Dorothy Wallace Holbrook before the Dixon Woman's Club on Saturday was greatly enjoyed. The speaker was well informed on her subject, "Child Psychology" and illustrated in many ways that a knowledge of the science of the mind succeeds, where common sense and so-called mother instinct often fails.

Mrs. Holbrook stressed the importance of having internal harmony and kindness in the home, thus giving a child the background of confidence and security.

She warned parents against making decisions for their children, and eliminating all obstacles from their path for by those means, only can they develop into responsible adults.

Direction of the will is necessary; dominating the will is harmful. Ease of delivery and charm of personality characterized the fluent speaker.

Mrs. Picher announced that the women belonging to the hospital Unit of the Community Service Dept. might find work to do, in the mending and marking of linens each Thursday afternoon at the nurses' home.

At the next meeting the annual election will take place, after which the music committee will present Mr. Rawls, well known tenor, in concert program.

The afternoon, closed with the serving of refreshments by Mesdames Franks, Stauffer, Suter, Bartholomew, Sweeney, Keach and the Misses Beier and Swarts. Mrs. H. A. White and Miss Emma Beier poured.

Hintz who has served for a quarter of a century as superintendent of the Sunday School of the First Methodist church was completely surprised Sunday morning, when the hour was devoted to special observance of his leadership. Twenty-five years ago Sunday Mr. Hintz was elected to the position which he has capably held since.

Ex-Mayor Frank D. Palmer presented a set of resolutions which had been drafted by the school officers, commending the work of their leader and giving a brief history of the Sunday school since its organization 89 years ago, in which Mr. Hintz has served as superintendent for more than a quarter of its history. Superintendent Hintz responded briefly, commending his associates, officers and teachers for the fine cooperation which has resulted in the upbuilding of this important department of the church life. He emphasized the fact that many of the instructors have been or are at the present time serving in like capacities in the public school system of the city.

The voters of this district will take pride in voting for Fred Sterling of Rockford for Lieutenant Governor on the Republican ticket. Mr. Sterling is a native of Lee County and is certainly a credit to his birthplace. As presiding officer of the state senate he has the thorough respect of the members of both sides of the senate for his efficient and fair conduct of the affairs of that body. The selection of a Lieutenant Governor is especially important because in the event of a vacancy in the governor's chair he would become Governor of Illinois. Fred Sterling's name will carry weight on the Republican ticket next fall and we feel certain he is the only candidate on the Republican ticket for Lieutenant Governor who could be elected at the November election.

VOTE FOR GLEN COE.

On your Republican primary ballot you will find, under the caption of "For Delegates to the National Nominating Convention," the names of three men, one of them Glen Coe. Lee County should give its full support to Mr. Coe for this office for which he has been induced to become a candidate.

Mr. Coe was born in Lee County and has lived here all his life and his record invites the most careful scrutiny. More men of his type are needed in public life. He is the kind of a man all Republicans should want to represent them at the national convention.

THE ARMY PAY CUT.

Formation of a "citizens' national safety committee" to protest against reductions in army pay scales tentatively approved by Congress is noted in recent dispatches from Washington.

A broadside sent out by the committee asserts that the pay reduction is being supported by "pacifist, war-resister, atheist, socialist, communist, un-American and anti-American groups."

That makes it sound pretty dreadful. If those oddly-assorted groups are able to sway Congress, is there any hope for the republic?

And why is it that one cannot suggest that the army or navy share in the government's economy program without having a lot of names like those applied to him?

MUNICIPAL UTILITIES AND DEPRESSION.

An interesting little sidelight on the depression as it affects municipal treasuries is contained in a statement issued recently by Carl D. Thompson, secretary of the Public Ownership League of America.

Municipally owned utilities, he pointed out, "are not only weathering the depression, but are actually, in many cases, carrying the additional burdens of unemployment and heavy taxes created or made necessary by unsettled conditions."

In Los Angeles, for instance, a municipally owned water company made a net profit of $4,334,000 in 1931, and is to contribute a million a year for unemployment relief and tax reduction. Washington, Ind., after paying off all its debts with its power plant, kept two failing factories open with the profits in order to maintain employment.

At a time when so many cities are frantically hunting for revenue, these are facts worth bearing in mind.

WHERE THE MONEY IS SPENT.

Demands for economy by the federal government have led many people to bewail the multiplicity of burdens with which Uncle Sam conducts his business. The inference is that if the work of such outfits as the Children's Bureau, the Indian Bureau, the Federal Trade Commissions and so on were cut to a minimum, tremendous savings in the cost of government could be made.

It is worth while, therefore, to remember just which government departments are the chief spenders. They are the Veterans Bureau, which spend around $1,000,000,000 a year; the Army and Navy Departments, which spend some $800,000,000; the Department of Agriculture, which takes fully $200,000,000, and the Treasury Department, which spends $275,000,000.

If any substantial reductions are to be made, those are the places where the heaviest cutting must be done.

We have declared for many years past and we reiterate now that Japan has no desire to acquire the Philippines. —Spokesman for the Japanese government.

The big bankers are taking treasury money to pay off their own obligations and are still hoarding their own deposits. —Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas.

The costs which have been incurred by public authority must be met, and there is none to meet them but the taxpayer. —Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

The most important aspect of business betterment has been the widespread return of the banks to more normal operating conditions. —The Journal of the American Bankers' Association.

THREE DIE IN FLAMES

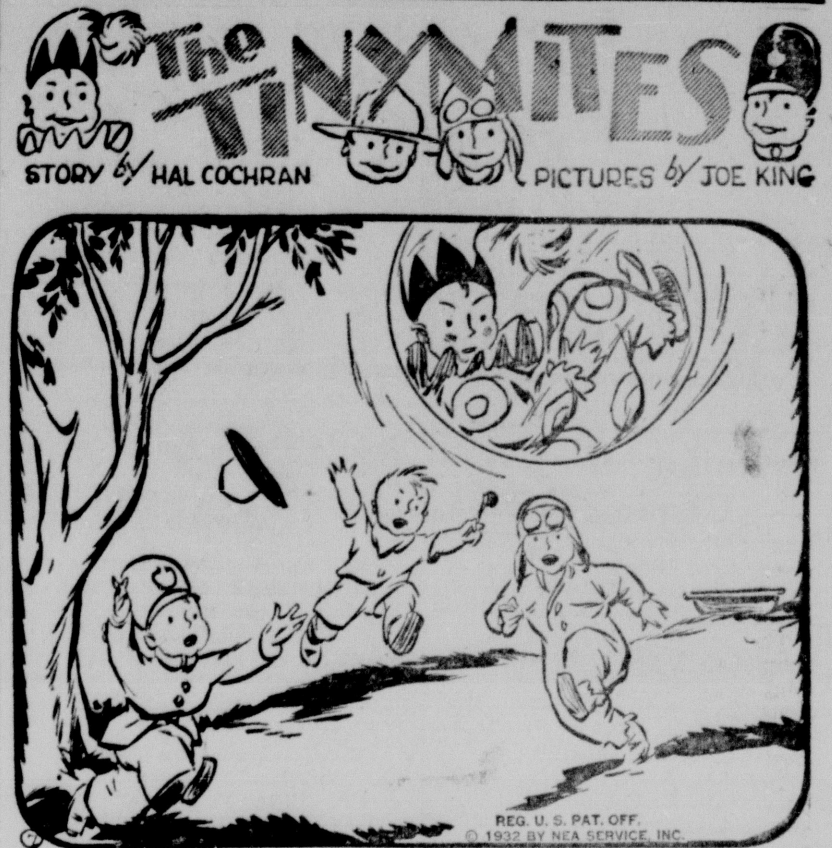

Louisville, Ky., April 9.—(UP)—Two children, clutching a doll between them in their bed, and their mother were burned to death in their home near here today.

Mrs. Glenna Stewart, 28, the mother, was found near the bed where she apparently was overcome while attempting to save her children, Evelyn, 8, and Dorothy, 6. Alvey Stewart, father, arrived at the house burned.

The world's largest stamp collection is said to be that of Baron P. von Ferrary, of Paris. Started in 1865, it now contains more than 500,000 specimens bought at a cost of more than $2,000,000.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

Poor Duncy! In the bubble, he was just as scared as he could be. The film of soap had formed around him, but he knew not how. Then, to the others, standing near he shouted, "Get me out of here! Don't stand there and stare. I'm frightened! Try and burst this thing now!"

The others, though, were frightened, too! They didn't know just what to do. All of a sudden Scouty said, "I know who played this trick."

"It was the bubble man. How sad! Remember? Duncy made him mad. And now he's getting even with a stunt he thinks is 'o.k.'"

"Why, Old Man, bubble is not here. Your little hunch is wrong. I sadly fear, said Windy. 'It is just bad luck that our poor, wee Duncy's trapped."

"Perhaps, though, we can set him free. Come lads we'll try it. Just watch me. I'm sure the bubble's bound to break if once it is soundly slapped."

He started toward the bubble then and promptly was surprised again. The bubble started moving. Then it lifted off the ground. Grab hold of it!" one Tinymite cried. "Look! Duncy's tipped up on his side. The bubble's acting funny and it is going 'round and 'round."

Once more brave Scouty reached right out to break the bubble. Then a shout from Coppy startled everyone. "It's going up!" he declared. "The bubble's moving fast—er now. We'll have to get it down, somehow. If we don't act real quickly, it will be high overhead."

But ere they had a chance to do a single thing, a strong wind blew and up the monstrous bubble went, with Duncy still inside. "Hey, Get it! Get it!" Coppy screamed. "Oh, it is too late. I never dreamed that this would happen. We must chase poor Duncy, on his ride."

(Duncy gets a sudden surprise in the next story.)

U. S. Uncovers
Quail Racket;
Fine Is $90,700

Washington—Uncovering a new bootleg ring selling native bobwhite quail, federal investigators are said to have secured names of more than a hundred prominent men, many of them multi-millionaires, who bought the native birds illegally from the racketeers, according to a bulletin issued today by the American Game Association, exposing a huge racket accredited with gutting southern states of their greatest game bird. Prosecutions are promised. The Railway Express Agency has been fined $90,700 for handling a shipment of 907 of the bootleg quail, seized from it at Holly Springs, Miss., on March 17. The maximum fine of $100 a bird was assessed.

The birds were shipped from Magee, Miss., by a man giving the name of "H. H. Johnson" and the St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, as his address. The several crates were consigned to prominent people here to points in North Carolina and Alabama.

A strange coincidence is that a ring bootlegging quail was uncovered in Memphis, Tenn., a year ago almost to the day when 450 native bobwhites crated for shipment were found in a raid on a warehouse there. Warrants were issued for M. E. Bogle in connection with the raid. He fled. Bogle advertises extensively as a shipper of both native and imported quail. He gives the St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, La., as his address.

Fred Belk, district attorney of Mississippi, who expects to prosecute the offenders, said: "After the seizure we put in a call for H. H. Johnson at New Orleans and the main operator there got a man by that name on the phone. When we asked if he was the one who shipped the quail from Magee, he replied that he was not and hurriedly hung up the phone. We tried again to find an H. H. Johnson at the St. Charles hotel, but the management

NEW BANK ACT RECOMMENDED BY BANK ASSN.

Will Urge State Body To Control Withdrawal Of Accounts

Chicago, Apr. 11—(AP)—A new state banking act, creating a banking board with powers to restrict withdrawals in times of emergency and administering the affairs of closed institutions, is suggested by the legislation of the Illinois Bankers' Association.

The suggestion, which will be submitted to the association at its next meeting, was made public yesterday by the committee's chairman, William J. Rathje, Chicago banker.

Two bankers, and one representative each of labor, agriculture and industry would sit on the five-man board, the committee proposed, "to supervise the department and to establish safe and sound methods of banking for protection of depositors and stockholders."

Other Recommendations
Among its recommendations, the committee advocated:

That the banking department, and receivers, direct the affairs of all closed banks with legal advice furnished by the Attorney-General. That officers, employees and directors of banks be prohibited from borrowing money from their own institutions.

That banks shall not pledge assets as security for deposits. That no dividends be paid stockholders without a surplus equal to 50 per cent of a bank's capital.

Rathje said long before the present economic reversal came, the bankers of Illinois, "went on record in favor of a new state banking act."

"We realized then," he declared, "and realize now, that men cannot be made honest by statute nor can statutes give a man otherwise unqualified either the knowledge, experience or ability to run a bank."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 10.

The Golden Text was, "He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death" (Psalms 68:20).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day. All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth unto such as keep his covenant and his testimonies" (Psalms 25:5, 10).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sin, sickness, and death must be deemed as devoid of reality as they are of good, God" (p. 525).

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

The explorers who do the most valuable work are usually those who get the least publicity and make the least money.

The perils of travel in the far South American jungles have been greatly exaggerated, and no man will be in any danger from the Indians there if he acts like a gentleman and doesn't provoke violence by waving a gun around all the time.

It's an easy job to put yourself over as a great scientific globetrotter if you hire the right press agent and know how to bluff.

These are some of the high spots in "My Jungle Book," by Herbert S. Dickey—an entertaining volume that debunks the exploration racket with caustic effectiveness.

Dr. Dickey has spent something like three decades in the wildest parts of South America, and should know what he is talking about. What he tells is plenty.

It is perfectly possible, he says, for a complete nobody to make himself world-famous as an explorer, if he goes about it right; indeed, it has been done many times, and the description he gives of the "build-up" process has an extremely familiar ring.

How many of our present-day heroes, one would like to ask him, are synthetic?

He adds that the really conscientious explorer and scientist usually worries along on about $3,000 a year and dies unknown to fame.

There is more in his book than this debunking stuff. He writes of his own experiences in South America and proves that unvarnished truth can be quite as interesting as touched up "adventure." But it is his onslaught on the fakers that you'll enjoy reading most, and remember the longest.

"Hell 'n' Maria"

Club Up In Arms

Chicago, Apr. 11—(AP)—The State of Illinois apparently has won the "Hell 'n' Maria" argument that started the other day.

A hundred North Shore residents having been refused a club charter under this name have decided to meet the state's objections by changing it to "Hellen Maria Club."

Secretary of State William J. Stratton declined to issue a charter under the "Hell 'n' Maria" name on the ground it was a profane expression.

The club members, admirers of Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes had picked the "profane" name because of its use by the former Vice President.

Chicago, April 9—(UP)—"Hell 'n' Maria" today became fighting words when a controversy was stirred up over General Charles G. Dawes' pet expletive.

Secretary of State William J. Stratton has refused to issue a charter for the "Hell 'n' Maria" club, an organization of 100 young North Shore business men for public welfare purposes, on the grounds the words are profane.

Stratton said the name "is profane and would reflect on the dignity of the state of Illinois."

"Hell 'n' Maria," cried Donald B. Hatmaker, the organization's secretary, "General Dawes gets away with it. Stratton is no censor. We're going to get out a mandamus and force him to give us a charter."

GRASSHOPPERS MAY THREATEN WESTERN IOWA

Investigation Showed Many Fertile Eggs In Fields

Ames, Ia., Apr. 11—(AP)—After denuding thousands of acres of middlewestern grain fields last summer, a hungry horde of grasshoppers left behind them countless numbers of eggs, more than 90 per cent of which now appear to be alive and in a healthy condition.

Dr. George C. Decker, Assistant Iowa Entomologist, declared that in some western Iowa localities there is a sufficient number of eggs to produce at least serious local damage, if not properly controlled, with the possibility that mild weather will again result in a general outbreak.

Dr. Decker, A. D. Worthington, extension Entomologist here, and Fred Butcher, United States Department of Agriculture Entomologist, returning from an examination of many farms in western Iowa, made public today a report which said that "the popular and optimistic belief that winter has destroyed the grasshopper eggs is apparently erroneous."

"In most cases where control measures were not adopted in 1931," Dr. Decker said, "it appeared that the new egg pods were from four to ten times as numerous as were the old pods of 1931."

ANNOUNCEMENT
OF BIG CONTEST
IS MADE TODAY

Manufacturers of Old
Gold Cigarettes
Sponsor It

A nation-wide prize contest, expected to surpass in interest all previous "battles of the century," is today announced in The Telegraph.

The contest will be conducted along the following lines:

For the best answers to the question: "What makes the Old Gold Cigarette so popular?"—a total of $37,500 will be distributed in cash prizes. Anyone may enter the contest, according to P. Lorillard Company, makers of Old Golds; and every entrant will have an equal opportunity to win the grand prize of $20,000.00, or any of the one hundred and six remaining prizes, which range from $5,000 to $1000.

The judges of the contest will be: Anne Morgan, the distinguished social welfare worker, and daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan; Irvin S. Cobb, eminent author and one of the most famous of American short-story writers; and Grantland Rice, leading authority on sports.

The contest announcements will be carried in the advertising columns of daily newspapers from coast to coast. Extra mail clerks and a large secretarial staff have been engaged to handle the entries as they come to New York contest headquarters from all parts of the country.

The contest marks the opening of an intensive nationwide advertising campaign to familiarize smokers with Old Gold's natural tobacco flavor.

First official announcement of the contest appears today. It will be followed by other announcements during the life of the contest, which will run until May 15th.

The winners of "Old Gold's Not a Cough in a Carload Contest" will be announced about July 1st, in order to give the judges and their staffs time to read every submission carefully, no matter how large the entry list.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, Apr. 11.—(AP)—It will be a rocky road that leads to the 1932 National League pennant if shirts in player talent bring about
an expected balancing of strength
all down the line.

There is no getting away from the fact that the world champion
St. Louis Cardinals will start the campaign tomorrow, pronounced
favorites to wind up in September
with their third straight crown.

But there is no expectation that they can make such a run-away
race of it as they did a year ago,
not with such formidable challengers as the New York Giants
and Chicago Cubs in the field.

Since the Cardinals captured the world series from the Athletics
last fall they have lost the services
of a great pitcher, Burleigh
Grimes, and an outfielder, Chick Haley, who won the league batting title last season. Grimes went to the Cubs by trade and Haley has refused to sign a contract. Tex Carleton and Dizzy Dean may help offset the loss of Grimes.
Jim Collins, a substitute first base-
man, is filling in for Haley.

The Giants, generally picked to finish one-two, will put on the field a well-trained, well-conditioned and excellent team. The infield has been improved by the addition of the hard-hitting recruit, Len Koecknecke, and Hal Schumacher should prove a help
to an already powerful pitching
staff.

Cubs Crippled
The Cubs' crippled would loom
even more dangerous if Rogers Hornsbey could bolster an outfield
that consists of Hazen Cuyler.
The infield also may be a sore spot now that shortstop William English is out for two weeks or more with a broken finger. The comparatively inexperienced Bill Jurgess will substitute, flanked by two youngsters, Stanley Hack at third and Bill Herman at second.

Brooklyn seems to have great potentialities that may be realized
under Max Carey's guidance. The Dodgers' fate, however, depends upon the recovery of the pitching
staff as well as the performance of such "key" figures as Hack Wilson and Glenn Wright. Joe Stripp
and Tony Cucinello, obtained in the big deal with the Reds, should strengthen the infield but the illness of Del Bisschette, even with so experienced a substitute as George Kelly on hand, may hurt
more than a little.

None of the other four clubs—
Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cincinnati Boston—seems to have developed the additional strength needed to boost them into the pennant
fight but all should be vastly improved over last year, particularly the Phillies.

Carey at Brooklyn and George Gibson at Pittsburgh are the new managers this year.

Chicago, April 11.—(AP)—Connie
Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics hit the long trail for a record
breaking American League pennant contest tomorrow with a well
founded suspicion that they are
in for a rocky journey.

They were slight favorites to win, and thereby become the first American League team to capture

four straight flags; but tradition
and at least three improved clubs
shaken out of their apparent inferiority complex by a National League victory in the 1931 world
series, were a little more cocksure
and confident of halting their victory march.

As the managers, players and
batboys finished their usual pre-
game rituals before the big push starts tomorrow, Joe McCarthy's New York Yankees, packing a dangerous punch, better fielding and a good looking pitching staff, were labeled as the one team to chase
the A's from their corner on pen-nants while Washington and Cleveland received the rating as possible giant killers. None of the other four entries was bold
enough to promise a flag but wanted it understood that Connie
Mack's southpaw ace, Robert M.
Grove, together with George A.
Earnshaw, Jimmie Foss, Al Simmons and Mickey Cochrane,
wouldn't promote any pre-game
panics among their ranks.

As Less Feared
A defeat in the world series always leads to a little less fear of a league champion but none in years had a more stimulating affect than that administered the Athletics last fall by Pepper Martin and his mates.

Cornie Mack, throughout the winter and spring, strengthened
his reserves, a weak unit in his 1931 machine, and felt confident that his boys had lost their superiority complex. He was ready to shoot his full strength against the Yankees in the opener tomorrow at Shibe Park, probably starting Big George Earnshaw on the mound.

Gomez or Charlie Ruffing were prized to pitch the opener for
the Yankees, who had the league
interested in their two rookies at short and third.

Hoover's Arm O. K.
President Hoover had his pitching arm in great condition to send Washington and Boston off
to a day's head start over their rivals at the Capital today. Still worried over the punch of a reliable relief pitcher, Manager Walter Johnson didn't promise a pennant but was hopeful, Al
Crowder was his pitching nomination with the Red Sox, apparently still a long way from a flag,
contender, depended on Danny A.
McFadden.

Wesley Perrell's big right arm
and a tighter infield buoyed Cleveland's hopes of providing
some excitement in the title chase.
Perrell was reported to be in even better condition than a year ago
and was Manager Peckinpaugh's
pitching selection for the inaugural against Detroit. The Twins refused to talk in championship
language. Vic Sorrell was their probable lid lifter from the pitching box.

Chicago's White Sox, a mystery
team as never before with a new manager in Lew Fonseca, and a spring training tour without one
major league opponent, worried
over battling punch and another
dependable catcher as they awaited
the invasion of the St. Louis Brownies. Manager Fonseca refused to name his starting pitcher,
but his choice seemed to lay between Al Thomas and Vic Frasier.
The Browns, another team
which refuses to broadcast pennant hopes, were expected to place their first day pitching honors on either Walter Stewart or Dick Coffman.

RAIN THREATENS
Washington, Apr. 11.—(AP)—
Rainy skies ushered in the big day
of the baseball season, causing
anxiety to the thousands of fans
all set to witness President Hoo-ver's throw of the first ball in the opening game of the major leagues.

The early morning drizzle after
a night of steady rain showed no indication of lifting, bringing a possibility that the game between the Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox might have to be postponed. However, only a downpour near playing time was viewed as sufficient grounds for putting the contest off.

Washington, with the President
on hand to lend color and ceremony by custom gets the opening day ahead of the other big circuit cities. Mrs. Hoover and many high officials who are enthusiastic
ball fans were expected at the park, along with some 25,000 other fans.

"General" Alvin Crowder was
the pitching choice for Washington, while Boston picked on Dan McFadden.

AM. ASSN. TO OPEN
Chicago, Apr. 11.—(AP)—The longevity league of baseball, the American Association, opens its thirty-first pennant campaign on the eastern front tomorrow, with Indianapolis and Columbus hand-
picked favorites to win the flag.
If the enthusiasm of a baseball

opening is not too optimistic, 42 000 customers will sweep through turnstiles to watch the inaugural. The openers are St. Paul at Louisville, Kansas City at Columbus, Milwaukee at Toledo, and Minneapolis at Indianapolis.

Although St. Paul galloped away
with the pennant last year by a 14
game margin, it was raided of
seven star players by the majors,
which left it with a complete dark
horse in the approaching campaign. Pitchers and a capable second baseman were needed.

Indianapolis, third place winner
last year, was the general favorite
because of good reinforcements,
one of the best minor league
pitching staffs in minor league
baseball and a splendid record
against major league opposition
this spring.

Columbus, strengthened by the acquisition of two pitchers in Lee
and Miller and more help promised by their guardians, the St. Louis Cardinals, looked strong. Milwaukee too, was benefited by trades
and help from the St. Louis Brownies. More batting punch and better pitching was needed by Kansas City, Minneapolis also needed pitchers while Louisville
and Toledo needed several spare
parts for a pennant contending team.

Gorillas Most Misunderstood
Of Jungle Beasts

Washington, D. C.—Efforts to save the life of a baby gorilla at
the Washington Zoo brought the much misunderstood gorilla family
more popular attention than it
probably ever had before.

"The gorilla is usually depicted
as a savage beast which lurks in jungle, ready to attack, dismember or carry off human prey. The gorilla's bad reputation might be traced to tales of natives brought back before explorers made a careful study of the anthropoids,"
says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"One stock tale is that the big
apes hide in the thick-follied
branches of trees above jungle trails and seize passerby. Other terrifying tales deal with ferocious unprovoked charges of the animals. Writers and artists have exaggerated these tales until the gorilla's name is a synonym for a savage monster.

"However, students of African wild life have exploded many of the tales and have been led to the beast as a rather good natured
jungle dweller.

"When man approaches them they move on. The mother gorillas lead
the retreat with their young riding pick-a-back, while the huge
males remain between the family
and the pursuers.

"One famous African explorer
who spent many months on the African gorilla trails, avers that gorillas charge men only when forced to protect themselves or their families, when accused from deep sleep by the sudden appearance of a man, and when the family has retreated until it is fatigued.
In the latter case the male
gorillas give the pursuers ample warning of their impatience by assuming a sullen attitude.

"There are two gorilla lands.
The coast gorilla ranges the forests along the coasts of southeast
Nigeria, Cameroun, French Equatorial Africa and Rio Muni where the Washington Zoo specimen was captured. The mountain gorillas
range a smaller area on the slopes
of the mountains in the neighborhood of Lake Kivu, eastern Belgian Congo. Hunters have dimen-sioned the gorilla bands until there
now are only about 3,000 of the anthropoids in Africa, but through the efforts of Carl Akeley and other famous African explorers, the Albert National Park was established and the big apes are no longer facing extinction.

Eat Bamboo Shoots, Wild Celery
"The 'ferocious' gorillas are largely vegetarians. Their choicest foods are bamboo shoots and wild celery, which, with vines and
small twigs also are the building material of their nests on the ground or in the trees. The huge males of tree-dwelling gorillas often remain on the ground. Thus

PRIMARIES APRIL 12

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

WRONG AGAIN—
Well, it seems that my selection of the Chicago Cubs plus Burleigh Grimes to win the National League pennant this year
was not quite correct. The Cardinals will win the pennant in that league this year. A St. Louis fan has assured me of that. He writes:

"You pick the Cardinals to finish in third place. You pick Burleigh Grimes to bring the Cubs
in first. You think the Cards will miss Grimes this year."

"Grimes is a good pitcher, all right, but you can take it from me the Cards will not miss old Grimes at all. The Cards' pitching staff is stronger than it was last year. You forget that the Cards are a fighting ball club. They never give up until the last man is out."

HORNBY NOT SO HOT—
"You say that pitching is 80 percent of a baseball club, and that
for that reason the Cubs are in.
You think the Cubs have a strong er pitching staff with Grimes, Malone, Root and Bush, with some help from Jackie May, Bob Smith,
Dutch Hery and Lon Warnecke.
Now, listen, the Cards have Dean,
Carleton, Derringer, Haines, Hal-
ahan and Stout, that's just as good
if not better than the Cubs' pitching staff."

"Show me a better catching
staff than the Cards have. Why, man for man, the Cards are a better club than the Cubs, the Cubs with Herman at second and Hack at third, why, they are not so hot, and as far as Hornsbey is concerned, he is not so hot, either."

WHOLL SAVE HIM NOW—
"When Hornsbey left the Cards,
he sure broke his neck, and the Cards' luck so far has been good,
I must say, but it took Bill Hallahan to save him in the last
world series, and Grimes knows it."

Herman and Hack will not stand up under fire. All the clubs
in the National League are gambling on players. The Cards are gambling on young pitchers. I am pretty sure they will all come
through in great shape for Mr.
Street. Also show me a team in the National or American League
that can draw men as the Cards
can. No matter who goes out or who goes in, the strength is always there.

"Show me a shortstop who has anything on Charley Gelbert. No one at all! Take the case of Haley—if he does not come in the team will be just as good as if he were here. There is no ball player on the Cards whose place
cannot be filled.

"The Cards don't know how to take a back seat for anyone at
all. They are just a good ball club. Anyway, you will find out that the Cubs will have their hands full trying to stay out of the second division. Some people thought that when the Cards
let go of such men as Hornsbey, Mitchell, O'Farrell, Douthit, High
and many more, the team was shot. But it was just as good as ever — that's the great Cardinal Baseball Club."

CUBS LOST—
"Anyway, I am very sorry to inform you that the Cubs will not get the pennant this year, and
you can paste that in your hat.
The Cards are sitting pretty, and
it is up to the other seven clubs
to catch them.
"Why, this year the Cards will

PHYSICIAN WASN'T MAN WANTED SO HE'S LIBERATED

Chicago North Shore
Doctor Tells Of Experiences

Chicago, April 11—(AP)—Object of a wide police hunt for two days, Dr. A. E. Budde, prominent North Shore physician, was safely home today and told the authorities he had been kidnapped by five alleged gangsters who apparently believed him to be a bootlegger marked for assassination.

Dr. Budde came back home last night after having been missing since early Saturday morning, when he left his home in North Chicago to attend four persons injured in an automobile accident. A telephone call summoned him there.

After treating the injured, he told the police, he was returning home when a large sedan forced his car to the curb and five men compelled him to accompany them to what he believed was the suburban village of Cicero, on the western fringe of Chicago.

There, he said, his abductors removed a bandage from his eyes and exclaimed: "You're not the man we wanted. We were laying for a bootlegger." They kept him in a liquor warehouse, he said until they set him free.

Search Started
Dr. Budde furnished the police with descriptions of the men and a search was instituted today.

Two separate gangs had charge of him during his period of detention, Dr. Budde said, and a third called for him late Saturday night.

They blindfolded him again, he said, and placed him in a large car driven by a Negro chauffeur and attended by two white men.

After a ride of several hours, the car stopped in the open country and the blindfold was removed from his eyes. One of the men informed him he was only a half mile from Niles, Mich., and they marched him down the road with pistols at his back, warning him not to talk after he returned home.

Message From Detroit
He walked to Niles and took a bus to Chicago. Meantime Mrs. Budde, who is the former Countess Madeline de Colnet d'Huart of Belgium, received a wire from Detroit assuring her he had been released and would be home shortly.

Police expressed belief this came from Detroit gangsters.
Dr. Budde in addition to holding the post of City Physician of North Chicago, is also president of the Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan, Ill., and prominent in Masonic activities, and his abduction ran excitement in the North Shore community to a high pitch.

A mass meeting had been held, plans for his rescue made and demands served on the authorities for a diligent search for the kidnapers, especially after a note in his handwriting arrived Saturday pleading:

Wrote Of Safety
"I'm safe but for God's sake, don't follow me or I'll be killed." Dr. Budde explained his abductors made him write the note after discovering they had kidnapped the wrong man. Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county said he was unable to suggest what bootlegger the abductors were seeking.

Although the physician was visibly shaken as he spoke of the abduction, he said he had suffered no physical violence at the hands of the kidnapers. His eyes were inflamed and wrists swollen from tape with which they used to blindfold and bind him.

BRITISH PUSHED BACK

On April 1, 1918, German advances in the Lys river sector forced the British to evacuate Armentieres, but Canadian troops repelled one assault after another on Messines ridge, in the same region.

Merville was taken by a German assault just before night and British forces in that area retired to stronger positions beyond the town.

Many of the British divisions in the battle on the Lys sector had been sent there to rest following the great March offensive and were in no condition to engage in a major battle.

German divisions attacking them were seriously estimated at from 10 to 15 or from 125,000 to 200,000 men.

Fresh Australian divisions were ordered to the danger zone by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, commanding the British armies, who reported that he believed his forces would be adequate to meet the situation.

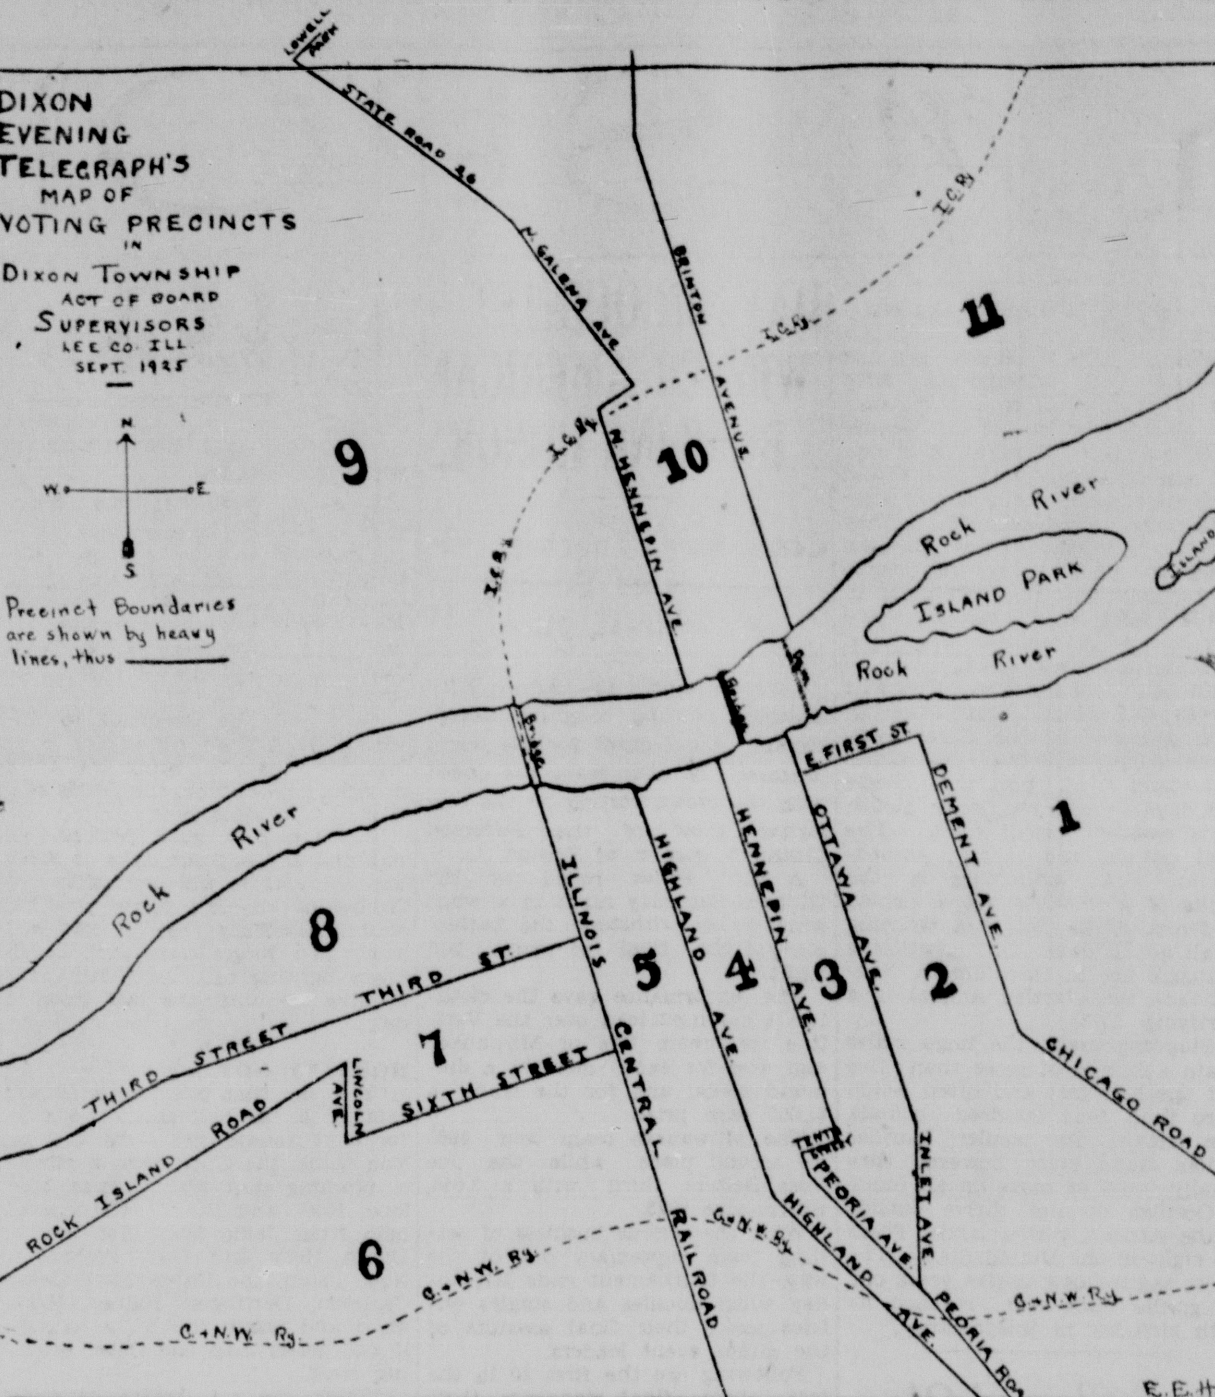

More cheering news for the Allies came from General Allenby, in command of British forces in Palestine, who reported another victory over Turk troops.

In the United States, President Wilson issued a proclamation naming William G. McAdoo director of the principal coastwise shipping lines.

EVIDENCE WILL BE GIVEN JURY IN HONOR TRIAL

Honolulu Prosecutor Has 29 Witnesses If He Wants 'Em

Honolulu, April 11—(UP)—One side—the prosecution's side—of the story of the killing of an Hawaiian accused, of attacking a white woman was ready to be told in court today as the Fortescue-Massie "honor slaying" trial began its second stage.

Selection of a jury having been completed Friday, the prosecution assembled witnesses for the presentation of testimony and evidence, the next step in the deepest drama the "Paradise of the Pacific" has experienced in several years.

As the trial resumed after recessing over Saturday and Sunday, Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley had before him the names of 29 persons who professed to have knowledge on one phase or another of the killing of Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian accused with four other men of attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie.

With the pidgin English they speak in court, since most of the prosecution's witnesses are Oriental and of mixed blood, Kelley hopes to force a chain of circumstantial evidence which will send Mrs. Massie's husband, Lieut. T. H. Massie, her mother, Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue and two Navy enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, to prison as the killers.

The death penalty is not involved in the case, since most of the prosecution's witnesses are Oriental and of mixed blood, Kelley hopes to force a chain of circumstantial evidence which will send Mrs. Massie's husband, Lieut. T. H. Massie, her mother, Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue and two Navy enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, to prison as the killers.

Despite his long list of witnesses, indications are that Kelley will use only the most important of them. He has said the prosecution expects to complete its case in three days.

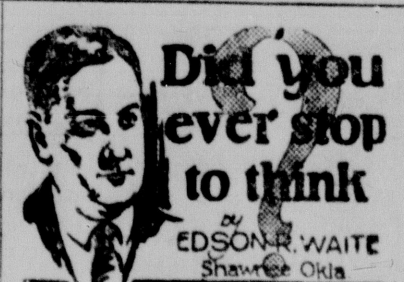

Court sessions are limited to three hours a day in deference to Clarence Darrow, 75-year old leader of the defense.

AIR TRAFFIC INCREASES

New York, —(UP)—The Aviation Corporation today announced that its subsidiary, American Airways, Inc., flew a total of 768,177 miles in air transport service during February and carried 3,189 passengers, and 112,892 pounds of mail. These figures show an increase of 38.5 per cent in miles flown, and 46.6 per cent in passengers carried and 6.5 per cent in mail poundage over February, 1931.

LAST ILLNESS WAS IN 1869

Mr. Carmel, Ill.—(UP)—Charles Irwin is 77. The last time he was sick was in the fall of 1869, when he was 15 years old. He can't remember if it was measles or whooping cough.

The advertising columns of your newspaper are a gold mine of opportunity for you.

Too many people spend too much time building air castles. Building air castles is, no doubt, a whole lot of fun, but it doesn't bring results.

Jay-walking and jay-driving are what makes cussing so prevalent in many communities. It is brought on mostly by the square-heads, bull-heads and bone-heads who labor under the delusion that they own the world and no one else has a right on the roads.

John N. Merriman, editor of the Booker, Texas News, says in speaking to fishermen: "Do not let yourself get into the habit of seeing how many fish you can catch, but get into the habit of seeing how large a fish you can catch and let the smaller ones go back to their life in the water so they may live for the future."

The development of a mutual understanding and cooperation between the cities and the rural sections does much towards the up-building of both.

Those who were wise figured out their incomes, and always made their expenses less, and put the difference away for a rainy day. They are the folks who are resting easy today.

Trying to run a business without the aid of newspaper advertising is like trying to run a automobile without gas.

A great lack of interest in city affairs is openly manifested in the average city election by the people who are most concerned in its welfare.

It is not always the unkind people who say hard things.

Business goes to a city that knows how to attract customers and how to keep them.

Advertising speaks for you—speak often.

TAKE PEANUT SHELL FROM LUNG

New Orleans —(UP)— Louise Henkel, 14-year-old West Point, Miss., girl was breathing easier today after doctors had removed a peanut shell from her lungs. Louise swallowed the peanut shell three months ago, and an abscess formed on her lungs. She nearly died. The doctors decided to "fish" the shell out with a bronchoscope.

A new highway machine invented by an Iowa dig ups the surfaces of old gravel roads, mixes the material with a bituminous binder and spreads the mixture back on the road again.

WHITESIDE CO. PROSECUTOR'S PHONE TAPPED?

Bell Charges His Enemies With Hiring Detective To Listen

Breaking into a room adjacent to his office in the Capitol theater building in Morrison Saturday afternoon, State's Attorney Vincent A. Bell and three special officers arrested a private detective and seized wire-tapping equipment with which Bell charged, the man had been listening in on Bell's office telephone line for nearly a month.

The state's attorney, who is a candidate for renomination in Tuesday's Republican primary, declared that the detective had been hired by a group of five Morrison and Sterling citizens who recently signed a petition asking that Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom take over law enforcement in Whiteside county on the grounds that Bell had "tipped" several liquor raids.

The man arrested gave the name of Frank Carroll and said he resided at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, Chicago.

Bell claimed he was an employee of the James H. McQueeney detective agency in Chicago.

The raid was directed by Special Constable Clifford Schutt at Bell's request, after the latter's suspicions had been aroused by queer sounds in his telephone during the past week.

The room raided is on the second floor of the Laurence shoe shop building, which adjoins the Capitol theater building, in which Bell's office is located. Bell said that Carroll had rented the room a month ago from Mrs. Addie Boyle, giving the name of the Acme Heating Co.

Included in the apparatus seized by the raiders were ear-phones, a condenser, and other equipment constituting a complete wire-tapping outfit.

At a hearing following his arrest, Carroll was bound over to the grand jury under bonds set at $5000 by Justice P. L. Woods. Bell announced he would present evidence against Carroll to the grand jury at the earliest possible moment.

VOTE FOR

DENNIS J. COLLINS

Republican Candidate for Renomination for

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

35th District—DeKalb, Lee and Whiteside Counties

Help DeKalb, Lee and Whiteside counties and your State Government by again sending Dennis J. Collins to the state legislature. Actions speak plainer than words—this fact has been thoroughly demonstrated by Mr. Collins during the past two years, both in governmental circles and locally. That's why thousands of voters throughout the 35th District will do their part toward again sending Dennis J. Collins to the state legislature. You may rest assured that he will do everything within his power toward helping any movement that may mutually benefit every citizen and the district he represents.

A Vote For Collins Will Help You

HE VOTED FOR and helped to pass the bill lowering the state license on small farm trucks, etc. HE VOTED FOR and helped to pass the bill improving the Chattel Mortgage Law, enabling the farmer to get credit.

HE VOTED FOR and helped to pass the State Income Tax Law, which will make Chicago wealth and personal property tax dodgers pay their honest, fair and just taxes in the support of our state government. This is not an additional tax, but means LOWER TAXES for the farmer, personal property and home owner.

HE VOTED FOR and helped to pass the bill removing the necessity for licenses for clover hullers, threshing machines, ensilage cutters, corn shredders, hay presses, portable sawmills, and similar vehicles used for agricultural purposes.

HE VOTED FOR the bill paying mothers' pensions blind pensions and judges' salaries out of state taxes, thereby reducing county taxes on real estate and farm land, and lightening the burden for small home owners.

HE VIGOROUSLY OPPOSED increased appropriations and increased salaries of all state senators and representatives.

HE VIGOROUSLY OPPOSED the additional two-cent increase in gas tax.

HE VIGOROUSLY OPPOSED state tax on cigarettes and tobaccos.

HE VIGOROUSLY OPPOSES senatorial reapportionment, and giving Chicago and Cook County full representation in both houses, as this would work a material hardship on all counties except Cook.

Mr. Collins has been faithful to all farmers and all taxpayers—he voted for and helped to pass bills favoring his district. He has vigorously opposed all bills that would confer hardships on any of his people. He is for you 100 per cent—he has and will keep every promise.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

Mozart, when 14 years old, went with his father to the Sistine chapel, in the Vatican, to hear the "Miserere." The music was held in such high esteem that the musicians of the chapel were strictly forbidden to copy it or take any part of it away. But young Mozart, after hearing it a single time, went home and transcribed the entire composition from memory, with only a few minor errors.

"MI" was once the abbreviation for both Missouri and Mississippi, but because the latter had priority rights Missouri changed to "Mo." Later on, Mississippi changed to "Miss."

The Triggerfish Autera becomes an inconspicuous bit of the scenery when it stands on its head. Holding to a piece of coral to keep from being moved about, the fish sways in the water and looks like the grasses growing around it.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By The United Press
Washington—Andrew W. Mellon's choice of his daughter, Mrs. David K. Este Bruce, to be official hostess at the American embassy in London is regarded here as an ideal selection which should meet with British favor. The Ambassador's daughter, Ailsa, is a striking young blonde of attractive appearance which she matches with graciousness and natural ease as a hostess.
Now that the problem of entertaining is settled, perhaps Mellon will call upon his daughter to assist in the task of naming the 28 American debutantes and society leaders to be presented to King George V and Queen Mary at the Royal Courts held annually by the royal family.
This selection caused former Ambassador Charles G. Dawes to swear more than any task he ever had. He now wonders how Mellon will fare in choosing 28 women from a list of more than 1,000 nominees.

The weeks before the court season starts in May brings hundreds of letters to the Embassy requesting that Miss 30-and-so be included on the list of American women who will curtsy before the King and Queen.
Some candidates are sponsored by long lists of Congressmen and people of influence. Uncles who have contributed to political campaigns are not hesitant to remind the Ambassador of that fact.
Numerous cablegrams and even transatlantic telephone calls inform the Ambassador how much money and effort has been spent by a deb who has not been included and ask if something cannot be done.
Then requests made Dawes swear and issue public statements denouncing the social climbers. Perhaps Mellon will treat the matter as calmly as he does international finance and big business ventures.

All Washington remembers the lavish wedding reception held in the Pan-American Union Building here following Ailsa Mellon's marriage to David K. Este Bruce, son of former Democratic Senator William Cabell Bruce of Baltimore. Through the spacious gardens

THE OLD COUNS' LOR'S COLUMN

"Call" Features in Bonds

Almost everyone knows of course that a bond has what we call a "maturity"; that is, the principal amount of the bond becomes due and payable on a certain date. It is commonly understood, too, that bonds are often paid off before they come due. When this happens, they are said to be "called" or "called for redemption." And, when bonds are called, they are frequently paid off at a premium—that is, at a figure above their face value.
The premium which is to be paid the investor in the event of prior redemption is of course fixed at the time the bonds are brought out. It may be three, five, ten points—or more—or it may be, say, 105 during the first five years the bonds are outstanding, and one point less for each succeeding five year period. Sometimes the company agrees not to call the bonds for a certain number of years, and only at a certain premium thereafter. Sometimes it is agreed that the bonds may not be called at any price prior to the final maturity. There is no uniformity whatever in regard to the terms of call.

Now, the question may be in the minds of some—why is it desirable that a borrowing company should be able to call its bonds before maturity? There may be a number of reasons. The company may feel that it may later be able to borrow to better advantage—either because of a possible decline in interest rates or because of an improvement in the credit position of the company itself. Another reason is that the company may some day find it necessary or desirable to change its capital structure. A satisfactory rearrangement of a growing company's financial structure might be very difficult if it could not retire its outstanding bonds and make room for a new issue. Sometimes, too, it is important when a company sells its properties, or a part of them, to have them free from debt; and this may make the redemption of its bonds desirable.

All this, of course, is from the standpoint of the borrowing company. From the point of view of the bondholder, a redemption of bonds may be something of an annoyance. A new investment must be found to replace the old. It may be difficult to find another investment which offers as good a rate of return with equal safety. Thus, it will be seen that the premium paid the investor when bonds are called, is really a form of compensation to which he is entitled.

CONTRACT SUGAR

Malta, Mont. WHALES BLOCK TOWBOAT

Rockaway Beach, Ore.—(UP)—Whales, alone or in pairs, are not uncommon in the Pacific off this beach, but a school of about 30 of the mammals, measuring from 20 to 30 feet in length, recently blocked the passage of the tugboat Melville. The boat cruised ahead.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CAREY finishes a business course and secures her first job with ERNEST HEATH, architect. BOB DUNBAR, son of a Chicago millionaire, comforts her after a disagreeable experience with a prospective employer. Susan's AUNT JESSIE, old-fashioned and strict, encourages her friendship with BEN LAMPMAN, a moody young musician. Ben takes her to a studio party. She is lonely but repulses the flirtatious advances of JACK WARING, who works in the same office. Bob Dunbar asks her to lunch and tells her he is going abroad. Susan realizes she is in love with him.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

DENISE ACKROYD, slim and perfect in her tailored suit of black faille, continued to stare insolently at Susan but her words were addressed to Bob Dunbar.

"Where have you been keeping yourself?" Denise went on in that high, sweet, agreeable voice, which had rung out above the others that night at the Strinskys' studio. Bob said rather uncomfortably that he had been with the family at Lake Geneva, that he had got in some golf.

"You look it," said Denise, surveying him with what Susan thought a proprietary gaze. Susan felt out of it. The other girl, with the ease and smoothness of long practice, had taken control of the situation. Susan was suddenly conscious that her rose pink shantung was all wrong. She wondered, dimly, why she had come. She was out of place in this big, cool, shining room where all the lunchers seemed to know each other and stopped to talk and laugh in little intimate groups.

At the other girl's stare she gave no sign. She monopolized young Dunbar completely. It was only when Susan, raging in her heart, saw a man in a glow said she must go that Denise appeared to notice her.

"Oh, you have a job, I suppose?" she said in a surprised, faintly disdainful tone. As if, thought Susan angrily, there was anything wrong about having a job!

"No, not come with me," Susan insisted to the young man. "Really, I must rush and you may as well stay and talk."

Surely he won't take me at my word, the girl thought. Surely he'll finish what he started to say before that hateful Denise interrupted!

Womanlike, Susan insisted that the young man should do exactly what she hoped he would not. She did not really believe he would take her at her word. But Dunbar by this time was bewildered by her silence and sudden coolness. He began to imagine the flash of understanding which had passed between them was nothing but a mirage. He walked with her as far as the lobby where, puzzled and annoyed by her new, distant manner he left her and returned to the restaurant and Denise.

Walking across town, Susan raged in her heart. The click of her heels kept time with her

BLAMED CORNS ON WAR

New Orleans, (UP)—Claiming that rigorous wartime drilling gave him "incurable corns" on the bottom of his feet, Willie L. Johnson, Negro World War veteran, appeared in federal court here and asked full disability payment under provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act. Johnson, a railway brakeman by trade, said he had been unable to follow his profession since his discharge.

The Funniest Sayings of ABE MARTIN
As Selected By
George Ade

The worst sensation I know of is gettin' up in th' night an' steppin' on a toy train o' cars. A feller should never marry a girl till they've tried t' pick out a rug t'gether.

"Boss gone?" Ray asked, glancing around casually.

quiet and pale, so subdued. Quite unconsciously he had come in the last few weeks to depend upon and to expect the flash of glowing understanding, the ready response that was half Susan's charm. Today all that was absent.

"I wonder if the girl is ill," Heath thought, for the moment vaguely annoyed at the idea. For the first time since she had been in his employ he began to speculate, idly, on the girl's life apart from Ernest Heath, Incorporated. Like most men of his type—correct, dignified, rich and unimaginative—his secretary of the moment always seemed to him to have been created for the sole purpose of arriving promptly at nine each morning, discharging her duties crisply and efficiently, and departing on the stroke of five into some dim limbo he neither knew nor cared to know about.

MISS O'CONNELL

whom place Susan was taking had always seemed to him the very best. It had never occurred to Heath to wonder what her life outside the office might be. But then Miss O'Connell was nearing 40. She wore rimless eyeglasses and, as Ray Flannery had devastatingly announced, had worn a hair net. Susan was different. Heath, sedate and proper as he was, had not realized what an inspiration there had been for him in this girl's eager, upward glance. The flash of dark gray eyes under long lashes the rich apricot color that occasionally stained her cheek—irrationally now he missed them and, manlike, was annoyed without knowing why.

Listlessly Susan finished her task. Her employer, with a prickling sense of uneasiness, signed the completed letters, snatched his impeccable Panama from the rack and departed in the direction of Hubbard Woods. Susan closed and locked her desk and dawdled over the business of washing her hands. Somehow she was not at all eager to go home. The dull pain at her heart which had been clamoring for notice all afternoon seemed intensified. With that sharpness of perception which seems to come to all of us after we have done an irrevocably foolish thing Susan saw how stupidly wrong she had been to leave Bob Dunbar as she had.

"You're a little fool," she told herself angrily. "You left the field completely to Denise!" She sighed and the sigh was like a groan.

"What on earth's the matter?" Susan glanced up to see the round eyes of Ray Flannery staring at her. "Nobody," said Ray sagely, "ever moaned like that unless she thought she was in love." Susan summoned the ghost of a smile, shaking her head in denial. Ray's unwinking stare met hers incredulously.

"I know the symptoms," Ray went on, looking wise, "and take it from me, kid, it isn't worth it." Warning to her subject she perched on the nearest desk and continued, "Love's a lot of hokey. It's all right in the movies but what I say is, leave it there." Susan laughed. She couldn't help it. Ray, with her dandelion head, her pretty face made up in what Aunt Jessie would have thought shameful fashion, Ray being philosophical, was really too funny!

"I'm telling you," Ray pursued the subject with relish, "Mamma says to me, she says, 'Don't you be going off and getting married like all these crazy kids in Edgewater, without a penny to their names.' Mamma says 'have a good time while you're young. You're only young once.' Again Susan's smile answered her.

"No fooling," Ray assured her. "It's the bunk. They all step out, maybe to Crown Point or St. Joe or somewhere, and first thing you know they're having a baby and you see them pushing the bulky up and down Sheridan Road on Sunday afternoon and looking like they'd cut each other's throats for a nickel."

Her description was so painfully apt that Susan giggled. Ray had taken out her make-up kit and had begun meticulously to rub more raspberry colored salve into tips already flaming. Susan watched her, fascinated. For one wild moment her impulse was to confide in Ray. Surely this knowing little creature could tell her how to handle Denise Ackroyd. But some reserve held Susan silent.

"Boss gone?" Ray asked, glancing around casually. Susan said he was.

"That's swell," Ray approved. "He's a pill if you ask me. The kind that goes around with his nose in the air."

Susan frowned faintly. "He's been very kind to me," she said. Ray sniffed. "What I always say is, I like a fellow with a little life in him. Some one," here she lowered her shrill voice over so little, "some one like Jack Waring."

Susan was putting on her hat in front of the mirror and so she did not hear the soft footfall behind her and was utterly taken by surprise when two warm hands clamped themselves over her eyes. But she recognized the mocking voice saying, "Who takes my name in vain?" Scarlet, confused, she turned to find herself within arm's length of that phillanderer, Jack Waring, himself.

ORGANIZATION OF CONVENTIONS IS ACCOMPLISHED

Party Managers Will Not Have That To Worry About

New York—(AP)—The "Organ" organization of the Democratic and Republican convention at Chicago this year is already in the bag.

Just why the builders of the Chicago Stadium, where the conventions will be held, installed a pipe organ was never made entirely clear. The stadium was built primarily for boxing, not basketball; for hockey, not baseball; and for basketball, not baseball.

An organ opus, explained some of the New York's cauliflower students today, is poor fare for boxfighters. A heavyweight who has just been bashed on the head by a blow in no mood for Mendelssohn. Box-fight customers, too, balk at Bach. The only music they welcome is that raucous voice from the gallery screaming "sock 'em wid the right."

There was little doubt in New York political circles today, however, but that both parties would take full advantage of the organ. What worried some of the master minds, however, was the scarcity of musicianship among the political leaders.

Outstanding among political figures from a musical standpoint is Charles G. Dawes, whose composition "Melody" is widely heard. Republicans made no effort to conceal their delight in the advantage this seemed to give them, musically.

New York Democrats, however, declined to surrender any honors. They pointed out the popularity of the aria, "The Sidewalks of New York" in connection with the presidential candidacy of Alfred E. Smith in 1928. Nor did they overlook the fact that the Democratic Mayor Walker once wrote a song hit which asked the pathetic question: "Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May?"

It was felt by some politicians of the Times Square sector that each convention should adopt an official theme song. One of the more fertile minds suggested that much of the convention business would be carried on by music cues.

The idea, some thought, might even be carried to the point where the actual nominations could be announced musically. In the event President Hoover was re-nominated, the organ would break into:

"Hoover There, Hoover There. Send the word, send the word, Hoover There."

The possibilities, the political observers confessed, are boundless. And after all they pointed out, the organ is there.

HOW MUCH COD LIVER OIL?
Questionnaires may be a nuisance, but one must admit that at times they are productive of a lot of good.

Recently, the council on pharmacy and chemistry of the American Medical Association circularized 19 leading pediatricians throughout the country with a questionnaire on what they consider the proper dose of cod liver oil to be given to children of various ages, as a safeguard against rickets.

The replies from these physicians ever concerned with the hygiene and diseases of children, have been summarized and their consensus expressed.

Cod liver oil, according to the standards of acceptability set by the medical profession, must have a certain minimum content of vitamin A and vitamin D.

Most of the standard and accepted cod liver oils come up to these requirements, certain of

Columbia Students Protest Expulsion of Editor

Cheering and booing were about equally divided when this throng of students assembled on the steps of the Columbia University Library to listen to protests against the recent expulsion of Reed Harris, crusading editor of the Columbia Spectator undergraduate daily. While a special student committee organized a one-day strike the undergraduate governing body passed a resolution approving the action of Dean Herbert E. Hawkes in dismissing the crusading editor whose charges of "semi-professionalism" in Columbia athletics brought him to national attention.

them being much more potent than others.

This condition somewhat complicated the problem of dosage.

On the other hand, most of the pediatricians consulted agreed on a maximum dosage of three teaspoonful daily as amply sufficient to prevent and to cure rickets.

It appears, furthermore, that most pediatricians agree that cod liver oil should be fed the infant beginning at the end of the first two weeks or at least before the end of the first month of life.

Subsequently the dose is increased until the maximum of three teaspoonful of cod liver oil per day is reached between the third and fourth month of life.

This maximum dose is maintained up to two years of age.

While this quantity is sufficient for the average white infant for Negro infants a daily average dose of from four to five teaspoonfuls is recommended, provided that such relatively large doses are well tolerated by the digestive system.

In cases where the children do not tolerate cod liver oil, they should be submitted to careful medical examination.

POET'S CORNER

"MY POLITICAL ATTEMPT"
I'm trying to write some poetry
What shall it be?
Now let me see---
A sunshiny day
In early May?
BUT no--for it is raining out.
I'd hate to write about rain, or crout!

I'm trying to write some poetry
The rustling wind
The buzzing bee---
Of a babbling brook
Or a poplar tree.
But these have been written about
before.
And no doubt they will be, many times more.

Oh I've tried to write some poetry
I've thought and thought
I've wracked my brain---
I've broken my pencil
With pressure and strain.
How Burns and Poe thought up
words that rhyme.
I'm sure I don't know--that's out of my line.
